

THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 29, 1908

WE are having another invasion of Virginia, not by northern men, nor men who from their mother's breast were nurtured with the milk of pure republicanism, but men who have at one time "worn the grey" now invade the state and have the effrontery to call themselves "southern Taft democrats"—the bread and butter brigade. The two most prominent of these are Gen. Luke E. Wright, now secretary of war, from Tennessee, and Mr. John G. Capers, of South Carolina, a son of the late Episcopal bishop of that state. Secretary Wright invaded this state yesterday, with the cry just as familiar as it was in 1861-65—"On to Richmond!" where last night he addressed the "Taft Democratic Club." Mr. Capers is speaking in Maryland. They are for Taft, of course. Why not? "The ox knoweth his owner and the ass his master's crib," besides the president has ordered all hands on deck, assigned them their various places, and, having heard "their master's voice," there is a grand bustle all around. Some one has published a book on the Hessians of the American Revolution. A fortune could be made by Mr. Roosevelt himself, or an addition to his already large one, if he would prepare a second edition, and give a chapter in it to the special consideration of the acts of the southern Hessians who have striven so long and so earnestly to get near the pie counter and stay there. Every man of this class, should Mr. Bryan be elected, would at once discover him to be a great man as well as a sincere patriot, and no parasite who ever tried to deceive the rich by flattery, would be more complaisant than they. "And Brutus is an honorable man," and so are they all honorable men, but this crowd of discontents beats them all. Some southern men and some southern newspapers have acted so strangely for some years past that it would be foolish to indulge in prophecy as to what they will do, but the unpurchased people of the south will remember this class for their party perfidy, and sooner or later there will come a day of reckoning.

THE readers of papers sometimes carried away with what is indicated by straw votes. On last Sunday the New York Herald gave a forecast of the probable election of Tuesday next, which gives Taft a certain vote of 280 with a large number doubtful; 242 being enough to elect. The Herald gives a number of instances, and quotes its figures where it was a good guesser, but refers to the vote in New York in 1904 in these words only, "In 1904 Roosevelt's victory was forecast by the Herald." Note that! If one will turn to the Gazette of Wednesday, November 2, 1904, he will see in its editorial column this: "The Brooklyn Eagle after a careful canvass of the indications of the voting in Greater New York next Tuesday, finds that the Parker plurality will be 182,022. The New York Herald canvass puts the Parker plurality in Greater New York at 133,000 and gives Roosevelt 145,150 in the balance of the state. The two journals are so wide apart in the results of their painstaking preliminary arithmetic as to suggest a complete unreliability of prognostication." According to the Herald then Roosevelt's majority would have been only 12,150 in New York state whereas it was in excess of 250,000. Instead of Judge Parker having 133,000 majority in Greater New York, he had only about 30,000. This may be the reason for the Herald not exploiting its bad guess of 1904. Straws can be picked up by a good breeze, but they can not always be relied upon to "show which way the wind blows."

IN RICHMOND last night (Gen. Luke Wright, secretary of war, former democrat and ex-Confederate soldier, appealed to Virginia and the south to forsake its traditional political moorings and thereby become a part of the whole country. He was introduced to his audience by John Skelton Williams, former president of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, and who announced that he will cast his vote for the republican national ticket next Tuesday. But this is of no consequence whatever. Touching upon the south's political attitude to the country at large, Gen. Wright declared that despite its electoral vote the section below the Mason and Dixon line had no place upon the national ticket because "such men as Bryan calmly deny her this privilege." He asserted that if the south will vote its sentiments and refuse to hold together because of tradition, the north will then not feel constrained to rain in the "solid north" to offset the "solid south." Then, he said, all sectional walls will be swept away and the south will become a part of the country at large in spirit, and its voice will again be heard in the nation's councils as of yore. With such a bait Gen. Wright endeavored to catch the votes of Virginia democrats but he will find out his mistake on next Tuesday, if not in Richmond, then in the other parts of the state. Gen. Wright, at the conclusion of his speech, was entertained at a reception by the members of B. E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans. This was all in Richmond!

From Washington.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]
Washington, Oct. 29.
After a ten mile walk through the rain and mud, and a good night's rest, President Roosevelt appeared at his office a little earlier than usual today, to go over some confidential reports on the political situation in a number of the doubtful states. He expressed himself to a few of his intimate friends as fully satisfied with the political situation. He believes that "it is all over but the shouting." The semi-weekly Cabinet meeting to have been held tomorrow, the last until after election, has been abandoned on account of absence of several members from this city, and the illness of Secretary McCall. Although the president has decided that he can see nothing in the situation that would demand a stump speech from him, it may be that as an eleventh hour expedient he may see fit to take the voters of the country into his confidence in the form of a personal appeal through the press. Secretary Root and Postmaster General Myers who have been speaking in Ohio, will be a position to present the situation in that state at first hand. It is understood that the two members of the president's official family have been directed to confer while in Ohio with Secretary of the Interior Gifford who has been stumping that state for the past week. Secretary Sikes, who has been stumping in New York city, after a campaign through Indiana, is expected to be present at the meeting. Secretary Cortelyou, who left last night for New York where he is to speak tonight, expects to go over with party leaders the situation in that state, so that he can, on his return, lay before the president and the cabinet the facts that may have been already received in the confidential reports. Although the White House considers the prospects of a republican victory brighter than a week ago, when it claimed New York, Indiana, Ohio by its pluralities, it is understood that the president is ready for any emergency and that he will promptly meet in the last few days of the campaign any adverse condition that may unexpectedly arise. Postmaster General Myers raced into the city today from Ohio, conferred with the president and hurried away to Maryland. He will speak at Baltimore tonight.
Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Newberry today ordered the court martial of Charles F. Magness, deserter from the navy, who recently married Miss Ada Gorman, daughter of the late Senator from Maryland. The papers were forwarded to Judge Island yard there, where Magness' trial will take place without delay.

This statement was issued by W. J. Conners, chairman of the Democratic State committee, from the Hotel Knickerbocker in New York yesterday: "I am as firmly confident that Bryan and Chandler will carry the State of New York as I am that election day will come next Tuesday."
Henry Watterson on "the outlook" will say, in part, in the Louisville Courier-Journal today: "The Courier-Journal can see nothing in the outlook but the election of Bryan and the defeat of Taft. Its basic faith rests upon its undiminished belief in the virtue and intelligence of the people and the destiny of the republic."
Confessing that they had been selling cocaine to the pupils of the Daniel Webster public school in Philadelphia, two boys arrested in the Tenderloin Tuesday night started even the police when arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Gallagher. One of the lads, Nicolo Larkin, aged 20, was sent to the house of correction for six months, and the other, Edward Lee, 15 years, was sent to the house of detention for a hearing. Public officials who have been making an investigation declare that they find that scores of children in Philadelphia are addicted to the use of cocaine.

A Eighty-years' Sentence Probable.
Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 29.—With one more indictment pending against him in the U. S. Court, Wm. Montgomery, convicted looter of the Allegheny National Bank is today facing the possibility of an 80 year sentence. It took a jury less than two hours, late yesterday, to decide that Montgomery was found guilty of misappropriating Pittsburg Banking bonds aggregating $114,000. On Monday afternoon he was found guilty of embezzling $469,000 of the bank's funds. Prosecutor Durdle expects to go to trial with the third indictment against Montgomery some time next week. This charge alleges "false entries." If convicted on this charge Judge Young, by imposing maximum sentences, could send the prisoner to the penitentiary for 80 years.

New York Stock Market.
New York, Oct. 29.—The market opened quiet and somewhat uncertain. Some of the leaders reacted fractionally, but after fifteen minutes' trading there was a resumption of the selling movement and prices went to low figures. Outside of the trading in Union Pacific the market was without feature. At the end of the first hour there was a slight recovery all around the room and prices showed fractional improvements.

Today's Telegraphic News

To Keep Trust Records Abroad?
New York Oct. 29.—The Journal of Commerce has confirmed the report, which got into circulation several days ago, to the effect that the so-called beef trust is planning to incorporate under foreign laws. This plan is not due so much to the recent conviction of the Western Meat Company, one of the trust's subsidiaries, in California, as to the fear that other States will bring similar suits.
"The plan under consideration," says the Journal of Commerce, "is to form a parent company with offices in London or some other British city, and to have the various companies, transacting business in the States, entirely independent of one another. These companies would then report direct to the home office abroad, and all correspondence and accounts would be kept there. In most of the suits brought against corporations under the various State and trust laws, the principal evidence has been obtained by the enforced production of books and letters." The theory is that if these books and papers were in Europe, the accused corporation could not be made to produce them. It has been decided before that federal laws could not be evaded by foreign incorporation. As to State laws, the Journal of Commerce quotes a prominent lawyer as follows:
"Incorporation abroad might help temporarily, but I am afraid that it could be met by the States by the adoption of laws forbidding foreign corporations to transact business within their borders unless they kept a full set of books and accounts inside the State itself."

The Hains Case.

New York, Oct. 29.—T. Jenkins Hains, accused with his brother of the murder of W. E. Annis, has issued a signed statement defending their position and bitterly attacking Mrs. C. and a Libby Hains and her attorney.
He accuses Mrs. Hains' attorney of trying to poison the public mind against the prisoners and disavows his brother's wife with the bitter allusion:
"There can be little said in regard to a woman who is trying to hang her husband who went mad and killed her lover," said the novelist in his written statement.
Hains defends his own part in the tragedy in strong terms.
Hains goes on to describe his brother breaking down under the alleged confession of Mrs. Hains which the writer says was a coldblooded, unbecoming manner to G. A. Hains, Attorney Bennett Caplan Hains and himself. He then tells of a fight with his brother during the months that followed.
There is a report that Captain Peter C. Fann was subject to examination by a commission in Turkey. Captain Hains is said to have broken down completely and to have at night so loudly as to disturb the others prisoners in the jail.
In accordance with previous reports, District Attorney Daniel Quinn's county has served notice on counsel for the Hains brothers, charged with the murder of William E. Annis, that he will move next Monday to have the trial of T. Jenkins Hains set for November and that of Peter C. Hains for a later date.

Murderer Executed.

Reading, Pa., Oct. 29.—Salvatore Garito, murderer of State Policeman Kelleher on September 14, 1907, was hanged here at 10:14 this morning.
Garito went to his death protesting his innocence of murder in the first degree and made no attempt at resistance when called to march to the scaffold. During the week Garito displayed a dirk which he had fashioned from a piece of iron used in the window screen of his cell, and declared he would kill any one who came to take him to the gallows. This was taken from him yesterday when he was removed to a cell nearer the place of execution. The condemned man, with his spiritual adviser, Rev. Father Venable and two bailiffs, had to be assisted up the ten steps to the gallows. His neck was broken and death was nearly instantaneous. One of the jurors fainted at the scene. The State commissioner and comrades of Garito's victim were on duty in the jail, as it had been rumored that members of the "Black Hand" society contemplated a demonstration. Italian Ambassador Des Planches intervened without a call for Garito.

England's Unemployed.

London, Oct. 29.—Terrified by recent riots of England's unemployed thousands and by threats of still more serious disorders as the weather grows colder, shopkeepers in the large English, Welsh and Scotch towns are today insuring heavily against losses at the hands of the mobs.
The present premium is from $1.25 to $2.50 on every $500 worth of insurance, according to locality. Insurance men predict that it will jump to $5 or $6 with the first pronounced drop in temperature.
Shops are considered especially bad risks in the vicinity of the parliament house, the meeting places of the county and borough councils, the "unemployed bureaus," and Trafalgar Square, where the big mass meetings of the unemployed are usually held.
The labor unions estimate that 10 per cent of the country's skilled workers are now idle. The proportion of unskilled laborers without work is much larger. The "army of the workless," now number 2,000,000 and is steadily increasing.
Night Riders to Hang.
Union City, Tenn., Oct. 29.—That at least six night riders will hang for the killing of Captain R. A. Rife at Reelfoot Lake is the belief at Samburg, where Gov. Patterson is in charge of troops who are hunting down the members of the band.
Corroboration of the confession made by "Tid" Barton, a Tiptonville is said to have been obtained from Frank Ferrin, another alleged member of the band which killed Rife, and as a result of his story Garrett and Tom Johnson, and four other prisoners are being held in solitary confinement, while every prisoner made by the scouting parties of troops is being especially interrogated before being headed into the "bull pen" is known.
In addition to the confessions of Barton and Ferrin much evidence of the organization and activities of the night riders has been given by ten men who have been examined by the grand jury.

Vice President Removed.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 29.—James S. Clark, vice president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers, has been formally removed from office by the district executive board. The removal of Clark is said to be the result of charges preferred by District President Feltus. The nature of the charges is unknown, as the convention is being held with closed doors.
Indianapolis, Oct. 29.—Charging that personal malice is back of an attempt to wreck the organization of the United Mine Workers of America, National President Lewis, in an official address given today charges that in "some localities the laws of the United Mine Workers are not being obeyed." The address cites a critical situation in the organization.

Fire in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 29.—Twenty persons, mostly women, were hurt, some scalded and others overcome by smoke, in a fire caused by a calcium light explosion on the fourth floor of the Neave building shortly after noon today. A panic followed the alarm of fire and about sixty women employees rushed to the windows and prepared to leap, but were held back by cries from the crowd. One woman on the tenth floor leaped to the roof of a seven-story building adjoining and was seriously injured. "Kid" Purcell, prize-fighter, fell from a ladder at the third floor window assisting the firemen and was fatally injured.

Double Tragedy.

Greenfield, Mass., Oct. 29.—Jealousy is the only cause which the acquaintances of the two victims can assign for the double tragedy that occurred here last night, when Benjamin E. Gines shot his sweetheart, Harriet Mabel Wing, and then killed himself with the same revolver. Gines was a prosperous mill mechanic, 39 years old. Miss Wing, who was 29, worked in a local department store. The tragedy occurred on the porch of the girl's boarding house, where the couple were dining about two hours later. It is believed that Gines was insanely jealous, because his sweetheart had told him she was going to a Halloween dance with a younger man.

Brandenburg Bailed.

New York, Oct. 29.—Lined up with the morning's a smattering of pickpockets, burglars and petty offenders, Brandenburg, the magazine writer who recently signed his name to an article attributing certain utterances to the late Grover Cleveland was arraigned before Judge Warren with Foster in the court of general sessions today on an indictment charging grand larceny in the second degree. He entered a plea of not guilty and bail was fixed at $1,500. It was furnished by a Baltimore bonding company acting on the request of friends of Brandenburg in Ohio. Brandenburg went at once to the Hotel Astor. He said he would prepare a statement for publication late this afternoon.

Mr. Bryan Confident.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Greatly encouraged in his fight by the public endorsement of David B. Hill, who presided at a big Albany meeting, William J. Bryan left here this morning to continue his up-state tour. During today he will speak at Cohoes, Utica, Rome, Oneida, Canastota and Syracuse. "We are going to win a great victory," Bryan told the Albany crowd. "The democratic party is full of fight and there is no question as to the result. I expect to carry New York state and I expect to carry the middle west as well as some of the east states. We will have enough to win—and more."

Asphyxiated.

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 29.—John W. Hutchinson, the octogenarian poet, famous for his work in abolition days, the friend of Abraham Lincoln was asphyxiated today at his home on High Rock. He was found by his wife lying face downward near the door, toward which he had crawled in an effort to escape. Gas was escaping from a heater. He died within an hour.

Injured by Tidal Wave.

Boston, Oct. 29.—Twenty persons aboard the Canadian liner Isar were injured, six of them seriously, when the steamer ran into a gigantic tidal wave in the "Devil's Hole," one day out of Queensstown. All those badly hurt were in the average. Their injuries range from broken legs to fractured knee caps. All will recover.

McPhail, recording secretary, showed that during the last year 2,176 names had been enrolled on the registration cards, an increase of 421. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. N. A. Melick, showed receipts of $438.24 and disbursements of $387.35. Rev. Mr. Maybree, of the Children's Home Society of Virginia, addressed the convention. The Bible reading was conducted by Mrs. I. LETTER TO MAYOR PAFF

Alexandria, Va.
Dear Sir: "It costs as much to put-on poor paint as good"—a common saying and true; it costs much more to put-on poor paint; more gallons.
Poor paint is paint and barytes or paint and sand or paint and lime or paint and chalk or paint and kieselguhr or paint and water; these are the usual cheats; there are others.
It takes more gallons of paint-and-a-cheat than of honest paint; and the cost of the labor of painting is so much a gallon—one gallon costs as much as another, for labor.
This is the way to reckon your costs for this year; but how about next year?
Paint Drove, and next year costs nothing; year after next the same; the same for several years.
Paint anything else, and your costs recur according to what you paint-with. Some of the mixtures wear one year; some two; some three.
It costs twice, three times, four times, five times as much to paint with a cheat as to paint with Devco.
Yours truly,
P. W. DEVCO & Co.
P. S.—E. S. Leadbeater & Sons sell our paint.
